Some random thoughts ...

Our Gospel story from Luke this weekend offers us an opportunity to see the way in which Jesus lived. He was open to God flowing through his life and the possibility that he could trust his feelings and instincts. He did not need for his feelings and instincts to be perfect. Rather, he was free to accept that uncertainty was at the heart of life ... including, his life. Bad choices and good choices were not as important as trusting that God was present in every choice. Learning to trust ourselves happens only when we experience God flowing through us. Perfection takes second (or third) place to loving relationships. God is good.

Parish Updates:

A note of gratitude to all parishioners. You have offered me a time of blessing and hope. The willingness of so many people to volunteer offered countless opportunities for a sense of openness and acceptance that is palpable. The community events in which people worked together, formed many years before my arrival, opened greater opportunities to be of service to each other and to the larger community. The generosity of so many allowed Grandma's Attic, for example, to offer assistance to thousands of people both in the store and through donations to other agencies. The Parish Bazaars and May Breakfasts offered opportunities for people to meet and relate in ways that would not have been available otherwise. The various committees offered insight and possible approaches to some thorny situations and everyday life in the Parish. Faith Formation/Youth Ministry/Scouts reached-out and engaged young people and offered opportunities for growth and development. A plethora of happy and sad events, a sharing of daily life and a recognition of God dwelling with us are all gifts for which I am truly grateful. Thank You!
